

Innovative Ideas
for Every Room

THE New
Southwest Home

Natural materials like the stacked stone used for the fireplace and the wooden beams used to create the inlaid ceiling pattern help center this spacious living room. With the pleasing colors of the furnishings and faux-finished walls, the room feels comfortable and cozy. Extra seating is available on either side of the fireplace.

Top: What a luxury to have a fireplace in the bedroom! Besides providing heat during cold weather, the sight of fire and the sound of crackling wood warm the heart and soul all year long. Place your favorite comfy chair near the fireplace and make sure you have adequate lighting to read. A decorative iron fire grill sits in front of this fireplace with candles glowing nearby, casting palm tree patterns on the wall that seem to mimic the curtain panel.

Bathrooms
